- Māori language week was celebrated and ākonga and kaiako were provided with te reo Māori clues to interpret daily.
- Analysis of kaiako and community reviews continues to highlight the urgency of a communications plan. This has been broadened to include the website, kaiako and ākonga handbooks as well as welcome packs for new whānau.
- The principal and the administrator responsible for communications have met online with representatives from HAIL and are in the process of streamlining important communications channels (website, newsletters).
- The annual plan for 2025 has been updated to reflect the importance and urgency of the communications plan.
- A kaiako survey to allow for measuring the impact of the actions of the connect strategic goal in a draft form will be provided to kaiako at the beginning of 2025.
- A process for improving the efficacy of reviews that will involve obtaining kaiako and ākonga views before this information is synthesised and discussed to determine appropriate actions in discussion with the senior leadership team.

Planning for next year:

- Review and update the communications plan, ensuring it is fully developed and distributed to the community by the start of 2025.
- Ensure the Cultural Leadership role is finalised and the responsibilities clearly defined, with a focus on supporting the integration of Te Tiriti o Waitangi and enhancing kaiako capability in te reo Māori.
Incorporate the feedback from whānau and kaiako surveys into next year's planning, with clear targets to monitor progress in shifting perceptions of the board, school, and teachers.
- Establish ongoing professional development for kaiako to improve confidence in teaching te reo Māori, with regular assessments of progress.
- Integrate the use of te reo Māori and tikanga Māori into daily school operations, with targets to track its effectiveness and impact on the school culture.
- Include in the 2025 annual plan a detailed action plan to address the urgent need for improved communications, prioritising the development of kaiako and ākonga handbooks and welcoming new whānau.
- Implement more robust review systems to gather feedback from kaiako and ākonga, ensuring this is incorporated into future planning for continuous improvement.

- There was a celebration of learning for the concept of change at the last assembly of the year with ākonga sharing a dance.
- Classes are rostered to assemblies to showcase to the wider school and community the work that they are undertaking in class.
- There is still a need to support teachers to differentiate learning and to understand that streaming is not the best practice and has a negative impact on student learning.
- Units of work of been created for the years 7-10 students and this has been a focus for these year levels in term 4.
- Careers tracking sheets have been created so that programmes of learning can be aligned with future career choices.
- There has been a proposal for period 5 on Friday to be a study skills, life skills, careers and financial literacy focus in 2025.
- Year 11s will be engaged with six subjects in 2025 to allow for a breadth of learning at NCEA Level 1 that will allow them to keep their options open for 2025.

- Years 7-10 have been engaged in specific teaching and learning relating to future careers.
- There has been discussion and a draft has been completed of a graduate profile that will be used across the school. This graduate profile is linked to the TCAS Way and the key competencies from the NZC.
- The Professional Growth Cycle (PGC) for teachers has concluded and some teachers have had this finalised while others will need to have this signed off in term 1 of 2025. In 2025, there will be a greater focus on reflective questions and alignment of the PGC with the strategic plan.
- Senior leaders have met with Deirdre McCracken to identify a 2025 leadership focus that is scaffolded by the Leading Adult Learning principles.

Planning for next year:

- Review the targets that were not achieved and analyse contributing factors, including resource allocation, staffing, and external influences.
- Carry forward unachieved targets into next year's planning with refined strategies and measurable milestones.
- Adjust teaching and learning approaches based on data insights to ensure improved student outcomes.
- Provide targeted professional development for staff to address specific areas of need, ensuring effective implementation of strategies.
- Strengthen monitoring and reporting processes to track progress more effectively throughout the year.
- Increase engagement with whānau and the wider community to support student learning and achievement.
- Allocate additional resources where needed to support identified areas of underperformance.
- Enhance support for priority learners, including Tier 2 and 3 students, with focused interventions.

Planning for next year:

Tātaritanga raraunga

- Include PB4L systems as a key focus in the 2025 Strategic Plan, ensuring clear behaviour expectations and consistent implementation.
- Set a target for increased recording of positive behaviours and support interventions in EDGE-SMS, with regular reporting to assess progress.
- Provide ongoing PB4L training for staff to reinforce behaviour management strategies and the reward system.
- PLD on restorative practices and the Zones of Regulation to ensure consistency in approach.
- Conduct follow-up surveys and peer observations to monitor kaiako confidence and use of behaviour and attendance systems.
- Investigate additional in-school wellbeing interventions to reduce reliance on external counselling services.
- Develop a specific attendance action plan for 2025, outlining clear responsibilities for deans and whānau teachers.
- Strengthen direct communication with whānau regarding attendance concerns, ensuring early intervention strategies are in place.
- Use attendance data to identify trends each term and adjust strategies to improve student engagement.
- Implement recommendations from the TCAS Way system review to strengthen school-wide behaviour and reward processes.
- Ensure recognition of positive behaviours remains a focus in assemblies and school-wide communications.
- Require termly reporting on the effectiveness of behaviour management strategies and their impact on student engagement.
